GBCM Guest Lecture Series

The GBCM Spring Guest Lecture with Brian Tomlinson, the Vice President and portfolio manager at Pimco, Allianz Global Investors, took place on March 26th, 2010 with much success! Not only was Brian an excellent speaker, but the event turned out to be a great networking opportunity for members of groups such as the German American Business Association, the California Association of Germany, the Foreign Affairs Association of Bavaria and members of Allianz Global, who were all in attendance.

For GBCM students, the night proved to be a great occasion for tips and information on internships, career opportunities at Allianz and general advice on paths to careers in banking, finance and asset management. The lecture provided a fascinating insight into the current global economic crisis and gave an overview of the opportunities and challenges for a post economic crisis world. With over 60 professionals and students in attendance, the night was a truly engaging and memorable event for all involved. We would like to thank Brian for his time and ongoing support.

The Irish Foreign Affairs Minister

It was a great honour to have the Irish Foreign Affairs Minister, Mr. Micheál Martin, speak at the Globe College on Thursday, the 29th of April.

Full details of the event will be posted on our website in the coming days and profiled in our next newsletter.

GBCM NEWS

Student Spotlight

GBCM would like to introduce Isabell Richter, who completed her degree at GBCM in May 2009 and was voted Best Student of the Year in the Griffith College BA in Business Studies programme at her graduation in November 2009.

Isabell writes:

"My name is Isabell, I am 23 years old. I started my Bachelor's degree in Business Studies in October 2006 having spent some time at a state university in Munich studying law. I celebrated my graduation in autumn 2009 where I was awarded Best Student of the Year in my programme. This made me very proud and happy.

The three years at Globe College were an amazing experience for me. Having studied in a state university in Germany and left the programme after a short while, I was unsure as to how my academic career should progress. The mix of students and faculty with different cultural backgrounds and studying in a family like, motivating environment at Globe College made it possible for me to achieve my dream of obtaining my undergraduate degree.

After spending the last year doing internships, I will start the prestigious CEMS Master's Programme at the University of Vienna in October 2010. The three years at Globe College allowed me to become part of the "selected group of only 80 students" who are accepted onto the CEMS Programme each year from all over the world. I am very proud to be a graduate of Globe College because it was a fantastic period of my life where I learned an incredible amount, not just academically but also about myself. Globe College will always play an important role in my life as I will stay in contact with the network of great people I met there."

GBCM Meets Hollywood

GBCM students spent Halloween 2009 mingling with Hollywood stars at the annual Ovidiu Rom Charity Ball in Bucharest, Romania. Despite the financial crisis, there was an incredible turnout with over 600 guests in attendance. The proceeds of the ball will go to support the 'Every Child in School' programme, the aim of which is to eradicate illiteracy and school abandonment in Romania.

The keynote speaker, American Ambassador to Romania Mark Gittenstein, and guest of honor, Ethan Hawke, both made compelling speeches on the need to ensure that education is available to all children in Europe, a position which GBCM wholeheartedly supports. GBCM was in Bucharest, Romania as part of an Industrial Visit, a trip GBCM students take each year in order to engage in experiential learning, gain an insider's view of various corporate functions and apply classroom learning in a practical context. Anyone interested in attending this year's Ball (which will take place on Halloween weekend) should
